SECRECY RULES WHEN COOLIDGE SEES VISITORS

Spread Of President's World Court Views Causes Slump In Publicity

LITTLE INFORMATION GIVEN

Ethical Rules Forbid Press To Quote Executive Without Permission

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—An involuntary secrecy envelopes the public business being transacted nowadays at the White House. The many callers on the daily engagement list of President Coolidge have developed a reticence not unlike that which the executive himself was required to have before he took office. As a consequence little or what is actually happening behind the scenes is coming to light.

The responsibility for this state of affairs goes back to an informal observation recently that the president would not be responsible for the statements made by his callers on leaving the White House. The experience which called forth this comment was a story obtained from a man who had discussed the world court with President Coolidge. The impression given was that Mr. Coolidge would espouse the world court idea just as he did his predecessor. No denial was issued contradicting the story but the significant statement was made at the White House that the president would not be accountable for what his callers said.

NEED NOT ANSWER

But under the rules, Mr. Coolidge has the right to decline to answer any of the written questions handed to him. It is a breach of the rules to let the public know what questions he receives. Many of the callers would be very interested to know what he was saying. In recent weeks there has been a noticeable diminution in information. Much of the president's plans are necessarily withheld because he wants to put his program into a complete address to Congress in December. This leaves a multitude of subjects of which there is just now live interest.

POLICE TRY TO TRACE MOVEMENT OF DEAD FARMER

Can't Find Anyone Who Saw Hugh O'Donnell After He Left Kaukauna

The whereabouts of Hugh O'Donnell, Dundas farmer, from the time he left Kaukauna at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon until his dead body was found in a ditch four miles from Kaukauna, on the Dundas road, about 9 o'clock Thursday morning, is a mystery in spite of the efforts of R. H. McCarty, chief of police at Kaukauna, to trace his movements. O'Donnell's body, with a hole burned in his back and his head battered, was found in a ditch near the F. J. Schmidt home. At 1:30 Thursday morning a man stopped at the Schmidt house and he declared that O'Donnell's body was not in the ditch at that time. Police do not believe that it required all the time from 5 o'clock in the afternoon until after 1:30 in the morning for the horse to travel four miles. They have been unable to find anybody who saw O'Donnell after he left his daughter at Kaukauna. The horse and buggy was found about a mile beyond the Schmidt home. It is believed that O'Donnell fell out of the buggy and his body rubbed against the wheel until the skin was burned away. His head was battered but there was no indication that the body had been dragged. Wheel tracks of the buggy indicate that it was particularly in the ditch, due perhaps to the weight of the body pulling the vehicle to one side.

TAILORED AT FASHION PARK

A Certain Man of Our Acquaintance

We know a man—a mighty well groomed man, too, who maintains that the very first province of an overcoat is to protect the wearer.

Our tailors at Fashion Park agree with that man thoroughly — but go a step further. Warmth, serviceability and protection are fundamental requirements of their Par-Kerry overcoats—but they are not content to "let it go at that."

With those fundamentals as a foundation they have put all the skill of their designing rooms and all the expertness of their tailor-shops into making Par-Kerry overcoats handsome.

The result is an all around overcoat of practical utility, thorough going protection and genuine correctness.

SEEK $8,600 FOR EVANSTON U. HERE

Appleton's quota in the nationwide Northwestern university campaign for endowment and new buildings has been set at $8,600, it was announced Thursday by Dr. William H. Moore, 523 Appleton-st, chairman of the local campaign committee.

He has been instructed from the Chicago headquarters that the quota is based upon the number of known alumni now living in this district. It is estimated that each alumnus will be able to contribute an average of $275 and that each alumnus can give approximately $250 toward an endowment and a fund for the New North western university campus in Chicago.

Beginning Oct. 22 the campaign committees will conduct an intensive canvass for funds. A part of the fund is to be used for endowment and the plans call for the erection of a huge campus on Lake Shore drive for the use of the medical, law, dental and commerce schools. A hospital to be one of the best equipped in the country, also will be built.

To bring the status of the women students on a par with men, a portion of the funds will be expended for the construction of women's buildings. These will include dormitories, sorority houses and a central building for social activities. Other extensions to the Evanston campus also are planned.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommend Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisulphated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quart glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloated right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisulphated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. adv.

Glad Sister Escaped Operation

"Physicians had given my sister up to die; they wanted to operate for gall stones, but she was too weak and could only talk in whispers. I got her a bottle of Doan's Wonderful Kidney and in 3 weeks she was able to get about and walked a mile to church." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. adv.

The roadster drove on without stopping, but the woman stood there several minutes surrounded by broken eggs. Her face was a study. J. B.

BLAME TORCH FOR PAPERMILL FIRE

Riverside Fibre And Paper Co. Woodroom Damaged By Blaze

Fire that was caused by the use of an acetylene torch caused damage in the wood room of the Riverside Fibre and Paper company at about 5:15 Thursday evening to the extent several hundred dollars. According to Chief George P. McGillan, the loss will not exceed $1,000.

The floor of the woodroom was considerably burned, as was also the woodwork, such as timbers, beams and posts supporting platforms. The blaze was confined entirely to the first floor, however.

The woodroom was not in operation at the time, but repair work had been done, and it is believed that sparks from the acetylene torch ignited the sawdust on the floor. The fire had to be extinguished with water as the distance was too great to lead in a chemical hose.

TRANSPORTATION AND THE FARMER

The last thing in the world that the farmers of this country should wish to tear down or harass is railroad transportation. They should not be blind to the fact that one of the express purposes of the radical leadership which is endeavoring to combine farm and labor discontent into a political unit is to attack the railroads and to make it more difficult for them to render satisfactory service at reasonable rates. If it is true that freight rates on farm commodities are excessive, and we are not prepared to say that they are not excessive, certainly the way to get them reduced is not to impair the earning capacity of the railroads or to hound them into receiverships. The same way to get lower rates is to help the railroads out of their financial troubles through co-operation that will enable them to finance extensive improvements so that volume of traffic may be increased and properly handled and operating costs reduced.

We have just had an impressive demonstration of what the railroad means to the farmer by the experiences of a large rural section of Illinois in the central part of the state. This section has for years been served by the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis railway. Like many other properties of its kind in the country it has not been able to operate and make both ends meet. After carrying the load as long as they could the stock and bondholders finally decided to junk the property and cease its operation. If this is done it will leave some twenty-two towns entirely stranded, without any kind of transportation, electric or steam. Efforts are being made to have one of the larger systems take over the property and farmers and shippers are in pandemonium over the outlook. Over in eastern Iowa farmers are clabbing together to raise money to save a Muscatine railroad from being junked.

These incidents are being repeated in many sections of the country. In the last few years hundreds of miles of electric lines and short haul steam roads have been abandoned. Transportation conditions which make it impossible for weaker railroads to earn their upkeep necessarily reflect themselves in all rail operations. Where some communities are threatened with isolation, business failures and paralyzed economic life, all sections are laboring under the handicap of reduced transportation efficiency. That this situation is wasteful and extravagant, and contributes to higher freight rates, low prices to the producer and high prices to the consumer, goes without saying.

Losses to farmers on car shortages alone have run into enormous figures. It has been estimated that commercial losses resulting from inadequate transportation have been equal to what the entire cost would be of bringing the nation's transportation system up to its needs; that is to say, in the neighborhood of two to three billion dollars in a single year. The farmer's share of that loss is estimated at from a half billion to a billion dollars. This loss would be equal to a ten to twenty per cent general reduction of freight rates on the traffic of 1922.

In 1921 the actual total earnings of class one railroads were 3.28 per cent on the valuation; in 1922 4.4 per cent; in 1923, first five months, 5.69 per cent. The increased earnings for the present year have been due to heavy volume, and should this volume be reduced for any cause earnings would shrink immediately. Earnings of less than six per cent on railroad securities are certainly not excessive. On the contrary they are low. They would invite very little new capital today, particularly in the face of the hazards that attend all rail investments.

The enemies of the railroads assert that the valuations fixed by the Interstate Commerce commission are wrong. They have nothing on which to base this assertion except preconceived ideas of a socialistic nature. There is no reason to doubt the reliability, in a general way, of the valuations that have been fixed by governmental agencies. They have been fixed by disinterested and in the main competent experts whose only motive was the discharge of a public service as a public trust.

It is not improbable that a way can be found to reduce freight rates on some of the great farm staples so as to enable the producer to reduce his marketing costs. It is not, however, going to improve the prospect of lower freight rates by continuing to heckle the roads and to subject them to destructive policies. The farmer more than anyone else stands to profit by making the railroads themselves prosperous and by making it possible for them, through this prosperity, to reduce costs, increase volume and lower rates.

THE PROPHETS AND FRANCE

It has not been many months since our Isaiah, and we have an abundance of them, saw in the French occupation of the Ruhr dire calamity to Europe. All sorts of bad things were to flow from this bold attempt of France to force Germany to pay her reparations obligations. The step would not succeed, France was only luring off her nose to spite her face. She was making it impossible for Germany to pay anything, and was prolonging needlessly the chaotic condition which threatened the peace and recovery of Europe.

It would be amusing to recall these predictions specifically. It would be painful to these prophets to refer to their utterances about the "great mistake" France made when she cast patience to the winds, if not discretion also, and went into German territory to get what she was denied and what she had coming to her. We always have such prophets whose sooth-sayings are the products of their emotions and prejudices. No matter how much their views may run counter to right and common sense, they sally forth and obtain a following. Loudly they shouted from the house tops that the French expedition could never succeed and that resistance by Germany would never be overcome.

Well, all of the things that they predicted could not and would not happen are today accomplished facts, and none of the calamities that they foresaw has developed. France had a right to go into the Ruhr. The wisdom of her act may have been questionable, but not its morality or legality. Germany made no bonafide attempt to pay an indemnity. Nearly four years had elapsed and not even a beginning had been made toward fulfilling an inescapable obligation.

France has won a victory that none of these prophets would have admitted was in the least degree possible. Even Great Britain lost heart for a time and tried to break up the only effective pressure that had been brought to bear upon Germany by threatening to terminate the entente. Now Britain sees the error of her judgment and is glad to restore the bond with France that never should have been shaken and without which nothing can be accomplished for a sane solution of Europe's problem.

France was certain to win from the beginning. There was never any real doubt that passive resistance would ultimately fall down. The prophets who condemned France in the beginning, nothing daunted by their blunders, will come forward with fresh predictions as to what is going to happen. No matter what France does she will be wrong in their eyes. The only "right" thing she could do would be to give up what she has won and clear out of the Ruhr. But France is too wise for this. She has shown that she is capable of sticking and she will stick to the end, that is until Germany, or what is left of Germany, pays her suitable reparations. She has ample security on the debt and she would be foolish to give up that security until there is evidence of its liquidation.

Germany has moved heaven and earth to avoid meeting her just dues and she is at the end of the rope. To the extent that her unhappy position delays the economic restoration and political stability of Europe to exactly that extent must the obstacle remain until she comes across with reparations. The best thing the other nations which have been sitting on the side lines and volunteering advice can do is to cooperate with France and get this account cleaned up.

THE STOUT WOMAN'S GALLSTONES

In the registration area, which includes some three-fourths of the population of the United States, 2,100 deaths from gallstones were reported in 1920. Of these 2,382 were women. How come three-fourths of all cases of gallstones disease are in women? In married women, at that. Women who have borne children. Women who have accumulated considerable starchy flesh. Women who have had typhoid fever. Women who have for several years imagined they had indigestion or some similar mythical condition. "Gass around my heart" at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Here I've simply got to give some bad news, though it only seems bad. It really will prove good news for some people. I hope. It is this; no one who suffers enough distress or pain from "indigestion" or "gass" to require medical attention or relief in the wee sma' hours should delude herself with the soothing notion that something eaten at dinner or supper has "disrupted" her. It positively is not that. I do not imply that it must be gallstones; for there are several other chest and abdominal diseases which may so masquerade. But if the sufferer is a mother, fair, fat and forty, or if she has at some time had typhoid fever or "typhoid malaria" or "stomach fever," and if her attacks of alleged "indigestion" have recurred at irregular intervals she certainly may be viewed with suspicion if not immediately operated on for gallstones.

The characteristic pain of gallstones is felt in the upper right quadrant or the northwest corner of the belly, as a genuine colic, or a cramping, or a dull ache, or a sharp cutting or stabbing pain, in about half of the cases it is felt also below the right shoulder blade or higher near the shoulder or in the right chest. In four out of every five cases the victim has suffered occasionally from chills, so frequently in some cases as to give rise to a mistaken notion of "malaria." In most cases, as some of you noted now and then, and in perhaps half of the cases some jaundice is present at one time or another in the years while the patient is endeavoring to evade the inevitable operation.

Here is some more news, which only seems bad, if any reader thinks I have "described his case," he need not tell me, for I have nothing more for him. He should tell his doctor if he must tell someone.

Here, why are gallstones apparently so fond of fat mothers or at any rate of fat women in the neighborhood of 40? Well, in the first place, such individuals are as likely as others to have typhoid fever, and the typhoid bacilli, lingering for years, perhaps, in the biliary tract after the illness, eventually induce the formation of gallstones. Fatish women obviously overeat, and that favors both circulatory and biliary stagnation or stasis or congestion, which probably contributes toward stone formation.

It begins to grow interesting, but here we knock off and call it a day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Futility Remedy

I want to ask you to please write all you can against tobacco and send it in the enclosed envelope, and sign it "From a friend." It is for a boy 17 who is bound to smoke cigars in spite of his parents. Do they make the hair fall out and cause pimples? Tell all you can and make it strong.—S. R. F.

Answer—I beg to be excused from playing the bogey. Your method, it seems to me, is wrong. If the mere wish of the boy's parent is not enough to make him give a pledge not to use tobacco before he attains the age of judgment, then what he needs is physical punishment.

Cross Eye

I am 23 years old and have been cross eyed for many years. Is there any way to have my eye straightened? Have worn glasses which have helped but little.—P. G.

Answer—When neglected for years the deviating eye sometimes becomes practically blind; then there is little hope of strengthening it. But you should consult an oculist to learn what can be done for you.

A lesson we learned from attending the band concert in Lawrence Memorial chapel the other night is that there is one course which the college, the high school and all correspondence schools ought to have on the curriculum. It is on "How to be an audience."

So far as Dr. X., College-ave physician, can discover, the new truth compelling drug scopolamin has been tried only on a few criminals and the like who probably would tell the truth half the time without any scopolamin. What Dr. X. demands before being convinced is an experiment on second hand driver traders.

Dear Rollo: While I was on my annual vacation this summer a lot of people tried to talk back about my articles about the farmer's troubles and how to remedy them, so I am told. If they don't cut it out I'll write the police and fire commission and they will get "bawled out" then. I want them to understand I am the only one who has a grasp on the real situation and nobody else knows what he is talking about. By grasp I mean when sitting under a shady tree by the fence next to one of those knicker girls that interferes with the behavior of the cattle.

But though it may require immunable negotiations, a satisfactory plan is certain to be worked out in time.

ROLLO.

10,000 Miles Will Be Goal Of Broadcaster

(William H. Easton, in Our World.)
Early in the morning of Nov. 27, 1922, J. H. D. Ridley, Croyden, England, was experimenting with his radio receiver.

As he explored the ether, hoping like every radio listener to pick up something unusual out of the welter of commonplace messages, his attention was suddenly arrested by the faint but clear voice of a singer. There was nothing especially remarkable about the voice itself but it was on a wave-length where no voice should have been at that time of night and it had that indescribable quality that marked it as coming from a long distance. It seemed a real find, so Ridley tuned it in with all the refinements his apparatus possessed. When the singer ceased, he held his breath, waiting for the all-important station call. It came, "This is WJZ, the Westinghouse Radio corporation broadcasting station of Newark, N. J."

A RED LETTER DAY

It was a red-letter day for Ridley. He was the first in Europe to hear an American broadcasting station, clearly, unmistakably and without elaborate prearrangement, and highly sensitive apparatus. As soon as his achievement became known, thousands of English, French and German radio enthusiasts sat up late to see if they could do as well. They discovered that they could hear not only WJZ, but several other of our high-powered stations as well, and "hearing America" has been the chief European radio amusement ever since.

Now that this start has been made it is perfectly safe to prophesy that within two or three years we in the United States will be able to listen every night to broadcasting from London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Rio de Janeiro, Quito, Buenos Aires and Tokyo, while Europe, South America and the Pacific shores of Asia will be able to hear us. Technically, there are no difficulties. The Newark, N. J., station, WJZ, with a power of one kilowatt, has today a range from Greece on the east, Hudson's bay on the north, Hawaii on the west and Chili on the south, so that it actually covers nearly a quarter of the earth's surface.

SCHEDULES NEEDED

Recent improvements in the electron tube, which is the vital part of the radio telephone transmitter, make it possible to build stations of from five to 100 kilowatts or from five to 100 times WJZ's present power. To such stations a range of 10,000 miles will be a small matter. Indeed, the main problem to be solved in developing an international broadcasting system will be so to arrange wave lengths and time allotments that each nation can be heard without interference at a seasonable hour and on ordinary receivers. Those who have been concerned with the drawing up of the co-operative broadcasting schedules for the American stations know what a complex affair an international schedule is going to be. But though it may require immunable negotiations, a satisfactory plan is certain to be worked out in time.

THEY'VE GOT THE WHOLE HOUSEHOLD WORKING ON IT

The Question Box

Said Buffalo Rose From Earth

The plains tribes believed that the buffalo were created yearly underground coming out of a great hole in the earth in what was later known as the Texas Panhandle, knowing nothing of the return to the East in the Fall.

Some, indeed, claimed to have seen the animals emerging, and to be able to guide a person to the exact spot. The large herds split up from various causes, chiefly for grazing reasons and in smaller bands eventually found their way back to the Texas and circumjacent plains for winter feedings.

The tribes and wolves took their toll; some, weakened, unable to keep up with the main bands, were left behind and wintered in sheltered cañons that the cowmen later found ideal for cattle, but those that remained were nothing compared with the numbers that found their way eventually to the more genial country where they were "dropped."

In the last few years of their migration their physical structure changed. They became longer leagued and scraggy, a good exemplification of the survival of the fittest, as only the fittest could exist under changed conditions.

What is known as the "woods buffalo" was merely the increase of the few that wintered north, becoming acclimated and changing somewhat in habits, coat and structure, also. They were smaller, with thicker coats of a darker shade, but never seen on the plains.—From Adventure Magazine.

Q. Where can I get speeches delivered by our late President Harding on his trip to Alaska? U. A. L.

A. The White House says that the speeches made by President Harding in his Western trip are in process of publication and will be published by the White House.

Q. Will you kindly inform me as to the exact number of representatives who will sit in the Congress that will convene next December? N. E. R.

A. In the sixty-eighth Congress there will be four hundred and thirty-five Representatives and ninety-six Senators.

Q. Where is the deepest spot in Lake Michigan? C.

A. The United States Lake Survey says that the greatest recorded depth of Lake Michigan is 870 feet, located at about longitude 86 degrees 45', latitude 44 degrees 32'. This is probably not the maximum depth but is the deepest water shown by soundings on lines across the lake spaced variously from 8 to 40 miles apart.

Q. What metal shows the least expansion and contraction with heat and cold? U. D. L.

A. Which metal has the lowest expansion and contraction has not been determined definitely. Tungsten and molybdenum are among the metals having low coefficients of expansion, which are approximately metals having low coefficients of expansion. However, there is an alloy of nickel and iron—usually called Invar, containing about 36 per cent nickel—that has a very low expansion at ordinary temperature.

Q. What is the curvature of the earth per mile? E. W. A.

A. The Naval Observatory says the measure of the curvature of the earth is approximately eight inches per mile.

Q. How many newspapers are current in the Library of Congress? O. D.

A. According to the Librarian's report of 1922, there are 769 newspapers in the Library of Congress of which 664 are published in the United States, and 132 in foreign countries.

Q. Which one of Wagner's operas was the most popular during his life time? L. J. P.

A. A letter written by Wagner and dated Bayreuth, 1877, stated that Lohengrin and Tannhauser had been performed the greatest number of times and had proved most remunerative.

Children In Program For "Rally Day"

Emmanuel Evangelical Church Will Present Program Sunday Evening

Interesting programs will be given at the Emmanuel Evangelical church on Rally day, which occurs Sunday, Oct. 7. After each class has met to complete its records, they will all assemble in the auditorium, where the program is to be given. The work of various departments will be presented in such a way that enthusiasm and interest will be stirred up among the pupils. Harold Schmidt and Norman Schmiedel will tell of the work of the Junior and Primary departments. Mr. Charles Reisenweber will explain his work in the cradle roll of the school and Miss Christina Wolfmeyer will show how she carries out her work in the home department. Members of the departments are expected to be present. The Rev. H. H. Brockhaus will represent the older people's class. Mrs. S. J. Sorenson also is scheduled to talk.

A foreign mission collection will be taken in connection with the program and the Women's Relief corps will present the church with a flag.

In the evening children of the primary and junior departments will give an "I Serve" program. The program is divided into four parts, "I serve with real joy," "I serve with fidelity," "I serve with generosity," and "I serve with expectancy," each to be followed by a short pageant.

Mr. and Mrs. John Luebke Celebrate Golden Wedding With Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. John Luebke of the town of Deer Creek Saturday evening celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. At 3 o'clock a religious service was held at St. John Lutheran church and the Rev. Ewald Sterz delivered the anniversary address.

A large gathering of relatives and friends of the couple attended. The interior of the church was decorated with sprays of bright autumn foliage and the altar was adorned with yellow roses. ## Invite Every Cook To Attend Cooking School

New ways to prepare meats will be demonstrated at the first lesson in the cooking school which the Appleton Post-Crescent is bringing here next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Miss Mary Schumacher, whom the Corn Products Refining company sent here last year and is sending again this year, will give the lectures and make the demonstrations each day. The classes are absolutely free and all the recipes will be given free, although those who attend the classes are urged to take along a pencil and pad or cards from their card index upon which to take notes during the lecture.

Many women who find getting meals among biggest household problems are already planning to attend the lecture and demonstrations each day next week. Others who are interested in just special phases of the demonstration will attend only those in which those things will be shown. Tuesday will be given to the preparation of meats with many suggestions of things to go with them. Desserts will be shown on Wednesday, and who does not welcome a new dessert idea? Special dishes for special occasions will take up Thursday's program and will be of special interest to the women who make their tables and food attractive as well as tasty.

The ever tempting theme of salads will be taken up on Friday. There never was a woman who felt that she already knew how to make so many salads that she needed no more ideas and so of course on Friday there will be a large attendance.

Every woman in Appleton (men, too, if they like to cook) is invited to bring her pencil and get food ideas for two hours each day for four days.

Girls Will Take Fixin's For Eats On Sunday Hike

A slice of raw meat and a bun is all that is necessary for the hike which will start from Appleton Women's club at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The girls will take a hike into the country, build a fire on which to cook the meat, slip the cooked meat into the bun and lo! everyone has had a good time.

As these October days are just in season for hiking, it is expected that most of the girls who go to the clubhouse on Sunday afternoon will wish to hike rather than remain indoors for a program. A cozy is being planned, however, for those who really wish to remain inside.

WOMEN SHOULD ACT QUICKLY

When a woman finds herself afflicted with backache, headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, pain in her side, irregularities and irritability, dark circles appear under the eyes and her complexion gets sallow, she may be sure the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to her sex. Such women should act quickly and take the great American remedy for such conditions, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they may be saved years of suffering. For generations this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health, and it may be relied upon with perfect confidence.

COLOR AND DESIGN CARRY THE DAY IN RUGS

However one must be very careful in choosing a rug of this kind as it is very essential that the colors and designs harmonize with the furnishings in the room. For instance, heavy patterns do not go well with a simply furnished room. It might be interesting to explain the difference between Wiltons, Axminsters and Brussels, the leading Domestic Rugs. Wiltons and Axminsters belong in the same group, that is the cut pile group; Brussels to the uncut pile group; formed of uncut loops; stiff and wiry and do not absorb dust or mat down like a cut pile. Axminsters and Wiltons are softer and richer in color and texture. Here are some excellent values in Domestic Rugs.

EDUCATION BOARD BACKS PLANS FOR HOMECOMING DAY

Graduates And Former Students Will Be Invited To Take Part In Program

Kaukauna—The first big event of the season at the new Kaukauna high school will be its first annual homecoming to be held Saturday, Oct. 13. At the regular meeting of the board of education Monday evening the plan of the students was taken up with the result that the board agreed to put on the celebration, taking charge of all financial matters and arranging to have invitations sent to all high school graduates and parents of students.

The program for the day has not been completed as yet but it is understood it will be a gala event. A football game will be played in the afternoon between the local high school and Shawano football team. A preliminary game also will be arranged. Plans are being made to hold a banquet for students, alumni, parents and teachers either in the high school or in a local hotel. A reception and program is to follow the banquet. Talks will be given by the superintendent, the president of the Alumni association, by the captain of this year's football team and probably by last year's captain and others.

A dance in the city auditorium which is now part of the high school is expected to follow the program. Other details of the day have not been formulated. It is probable a series of conferences will be held Saturday morning. The celebration will not be in the nature of a dedication of the high school as the building is not complete enough to hold open house. As soon as the lighting fixtures and all furniture has been installed, plans will be made for a dedication program in keeping with the dignified standard of the institution.

KAUKAUNA GRID TEAM READY TO BATTLE DEPERE

Boys Peeved By Report That Outlook Is Far From Encouraging

Kaukauna—Coach McGrath's high school grid warriors are scheduled to meet West DePere high school eleven Saturday afternoon on the local grounds. Members of the squad are still "indignant" as a result of the report that the outlook for this season is not very encouraging and are practicing this week with the intention of disproving the report.

None of the players was injured in last Saturday's fracas at Fond du Lac where the boys accepted a 17 to 0 defeat but there has been considerable changing in the lineup which is expected to strengthen it materially. Prentice Hale who started as right end last Saturday, will start as right half back Saturday. Curtis Boyer will play the end position. Eugene Vanable will be shifted from right tackle to play full back in place of Jack Farwell who is out because of an infection in his hand.

Walter Kilgas probably will fill Vanable's position at tackle. Kilgas played right half back last Saturday. The rest of the team probably will start as follows: Gilbert St. Mitchell, I. E. Robert McCarty, J. Jacob Horne, C. "Pat" Wendt, I. G. Arnold, Licht, J. G. Glen Miller, G. Sylvester Dix, I. E.

The following Saturday Shawano high school will play here. The game will be part of a homecoming celebration which is expected to attract many old students back to Kaukauna.

A referee for the game will be furnished by Oshkosh Normal school. I. H. Bonnell of Lawrence college, will be umpire and head linesman.

FORM ORCHESTRA AT HIGH SCHOOL

Kaukauna—An unexpected response to the call for high school musicians developed into bright prospects for one of the largest high school orchestras ever formed here. The first meeting of embryo musicians was held at 7:15 Thursday evening in the office of Park school and the results obtained indicate that the group will be able to play some really worth while music before the end of the year.

The original group Thursday evening consisted of 14 members who played six different instruments. It is supposed the number will be increased by at least a half dozen in a short time. An attempt will be made to discover a student who is capable of quickly learning to play a set of bells and another to play a French horn. Those instruments are two of several which were purchased with money from the oparetta fund. Music stands for the entire body also were purchased by the school. A girl has been found to play the cello, which also is a school instrument.

The personnel of the orchestra at its first rehearsal was as follows: Hildesard Reganfus, Dorothy Heass, Roland Metz, Emmet Rohan, Abe Goldin, Roland Raader, Alice Weidenhaupt, Naomut Becker, Collins, Lillian Mar, cello: Prentice Hale, cornet: Elmer Hohmann, drums: Howard Wendt, Lloyd McCarty, Robert Radesch, saxophones. Three candidates for piano were Wilma Klumb, Helen Weitenbach and Zeta Crevier.

STILL REGISTER FOR CLASSES IN EVENING

Kaukauna—Registrations for evening classes still are being received at the Vocational school office. Several students have been added to the classes in sewing, machine shop practice, machine drawing and typewriting. No instruction in typewriting can be offered at present due to the lack of lighting facilities in the typewriting classroom of the new high school. Electricians were at work Thursday afternoon installing the fixtures and it is probable the class will be able to meet in a week or two.

The heirs mentioned in the will include thirteen nephews and nieces, sixty-nine grand nephews and nieces and seventeen great-grand nephews and nieces.

3 CHURCHES JOIN FOR LYCEUM COURSE

Four High Class Numbers Will Be Presented During Season Opening Nov. 9

Kaukauna—A lyceum course consisting of three numbers to be presented during the coming winter and which is expected to attract the attention of the entire community is being arranged by three churches. The programs will be given in the city auditorium. The cooperating churches are Brethren Methodist, Reformed and First Congregational.

The price of a season ticket has been set at $1.25. Prices for single admission tickets have not yet been determined. Talent for the entire course will be furnished by the Emerson Lyceum Bureau of Chicago.

The course will open on Thursday evening Nov. 8 with Nora Bellhaz, lecturer and impersonator. Mr. Bellhaz has been with the Emerson bureau for several years and is highly recommended as one of its strongest numbers. The second program will be on Feb. 13 and will be a musical program by Ward and company, musical artists. The company consists of two women and a man who play numerous musical instruments. The third number on March 1 also is a musical program given by the Music Makers, a male quartet which renders vocal and instrumental numbers.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys in Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatism, twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy: take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. For all ailments have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

ARRAIGN POISON WIDOW ON OCT. 31

Elkhorn—Mrs. Myrtle Schauder, Whitewater widow held at the Walworth county jail here on a charge of attempting to poison one of her children, will be arraigned to face the charge on Oct. 31. It was announced on Thursday.

A warrant charging her with first degree murder in connection with the death of her husband, will probably be served before that time, according to A. L. Godfrey district attorney. Arraignment has been engaged by relatives to handle her defense.

Mrs. Schauder has practically recovered from the hysteria which followed her arrest according to Sheriff Hal Wyke. She does not know, according to officials the Ernest Kufahl, former soldier whom she was to have married next spring, is being held here as a material witness in the case.

"Taking the Blue Sky Out of Style"

Valuation vs Imagination

WHEN it comes to Style, "How much did it cost?" and "How much is it worth?" do not mean the same thing. It all depends on where you buy. Some stores deal in illusions, others in merchandise. At this store Style is not a mysterious element for which you must pay extra. It is the inherent qualification of every garment we sell—something to be taken for granted no matter how low the price.

Our prices are based on valuation not on imagination.

SLOW MOVEMENT OF POTATOES AND SUGAR

Sugar Price Is Way Up While Potato Market Is Low

Movement of sugar and potatoes has become as sluggish as molasses in January, but whereas sugar has taken a sudden rise of $2 a hundred pounds within the last two weeks, potatoes occupy a position in which the bottom is about to fall out.

The Chicago potato market is practically broken and there is some talk of placing an embargo upon potatoes coming into that city. The tracks are tied up with potato cars with no place to put them. The potatoes are bringing from 55 cents to $1.05, net per bushel, but per hundred. At that rate, shipping centers must be paying the farmers about 45 cents per 100 pounds. W. C. Fish grocery in its market report is quoting potatoes at 65 to 90 cents a bushel, but farmers refuse to sell even at that price.

Sugar, which is again threatening to soar in price, is now retailing at 10 to 11 cents a pound, as compared with 7 to 9 cents a pound a week ago. One reason for the rise in the price of sugar are the sterility strikes at the southern mills. Beets filed with raw sugar are also slow in coming from Cuba. The slow movement of the product and the immense demand for it have resulted in the boost in price, it was said.

Clothes Are Thoroughly Soaked In "Dry Cleaning"

What things can be best dry cleaned and what best washed? Dry cleaners are inclined to laugh at such a question for they say everything can be dry cleaned successfully except articles containing rubber.

That most persons think dry cleaning means cleaning garments dry is not to be disputed, but again the cleaners laugh for the fact of the matter is the first thing they do is wash them. What they wash the article in is not soap and water.

Garments to be cleaned are first carefully looked over for torn places and loose buttons or hooks. Then they are dumped into a huge cylinder shaped machine which is rolled about much like the average electric wash machine. It contains a special prepared naphtha bath and a certain amount of refined "gas" especially for use in cleaning plants.

Clothes are washed about twenty-five minutes or half an hour in the machine and are then taken from the bath which generally has removed all dirt from the clothes. The occasional stain or spot which at times remains is taken out in other ways after the garment has been thoroughly cleaned. The way the spot is removed depends on the kind it is.

After this removal from the naphtha bath the garments are placed in a machine with a large bowl shaped receptacle which is revolved for a few minutes at a rapid rate. The bowl has an outlet pipe through which the liquid whipped out of the garments can leave the machine. When the garments are removed they are often nearly dry and the drying process is completed in a room kept hot by means of pipes. All odor from the cleaning bath is removed through the drying.

In hats before put in the bath because they are easily soiled. Shirts, suits and coats and dresses are placed directly in the bath. To the person entirely ignorant of the processes used in dry cleaning it is rather a shock to see fur coats, fur trimmed garments, pleated skirts, kid gloves, leather jackets and other articles dumped promiscuously into the wash machine.

After the cleaned articles are dry and any remaining spots removed they are pressed and ready to be returned to their owners. In most cases all pressing and ironing is done by machine even to glove molds electrically heated, and sleeve boards.

In most cleaning plants underground tanks for gasoline are used. One local cleaning plant has three such tanks each holding 150 gallons. The gas used in the process is refined by means of a big still. As much as 35 gallons of this refined gas may be used in one day.

COMMITTEES JOIN TO BOOST STATE

Cooperation of two committees in a national campaign to advertise Wisconsin is being effected by Hugh G. Corbett of this city, secretary of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Secretaries.

The state association appointed a committee at its recent convention to plan methods of advertising Wisconsin. Recently Gov. John J. Blaine appointed a state committee for the same purpose. Mr. Corbett has communicated with Gov. Blaine assuring him that the secretaries, and in fact all chambers of commerce of the state, will be given the committee of his appointment all possible help to put this project across.

One of the main objects will be to advertise the state to tourists in order to increase this form of patronage. Another task will be that of giving wider publicity to dairying and other leading factors in the life of the state.

Fair, Chicken Dinner and Supper at Auditorium, Sunday, Oct. 7. Given by St. Mary's Cong., Black Creek. Amusements of all kinds, afternoon and evening.

STORK TWICE AS BUSY AS DEATH HERE LAST MONTH

The number of births in Appleton last month were just double the number of deaths. Marriages also were quite numerous. These facts are borne out in the September report of Dr. W. C. Felton, city health commissioner. There were 42 births, 21 deaths and 16 weddings. A total of 21 burial permits were issued.

There were seven cases of contagious disease during the month. Four of them were diphtheria, two were typhoid fever and one was scarlet fever. Dr. Felton made nine visits to homes of the poor in the capacity of city physician and received 12 office visits.

Hiker Who Was Fireman's Guest Reaches Coast

Leonard Day, the itinerant author from San Francisco, who says he traveled 9,225 miles on foot across the United States, and back again, arrived in Spokane Sunday. Mr. Day's hike began Nov. 1, 1921, because of an argument with his publishers, he said, and will end when he reaches San Francisco.

He carries a cane laden with 500 badges and he has in his possession some 1400 police and fire badges collected throughout the country. To carry out the terms of his contract he can accept hospitality only when offered.

Mr. Day visited Appleton last summer on his return trip to the coast, and was royally entertained by the fire department while here. He made several addresses before local organizations.

Says Tanlac Ended 15 Years of Trouble

"I just think Tanlac is the grandest medicine made," is the high opinion recently expressed by Mrs. Elia Barlow, 146 Military St., Fond du Lac, Wis., in telling of her experience with the treatment.

"For about fifteen years I had been bothered badly with stomach trouble and got to where I could hardly drink even water at times. I lived almost exclusively on milk, and even then gastritis, heartburn, palpitation, dizziness and nervousness troubled me dreadfully. Rheumatism in my knees added to my weakness.

"Eight bottles of Tanlac, used in conjunction with the Tanlac Vegetable Pills, has made a new person of me, completely doing away with my stomach trouble, relieving my rheumatism and increasing my weight ten pounds. My face used to be lined from my suffering, but now I am all cheerful and smiling, and people who know me have remarked about my wonderful improvement."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 27 million bottles sold.

Try the Camp Stove Test -If You Think all "Gas" is Alike

YOU don't have to go further than the little old camp gasoline stove to get the right slant on motor fuel values—for what you see in the burner is only a slower version of what goes on unseen in your engine cylinders.

Mark the quick-starting, clean blue heat flames of genuine straight-run.

Then compare against it the stubborn, yellow sputter of ordinary "cracked" commercial fuel—and in the time you're waiting to boil a teakettle you have a revelation of more inborn fuel poorness, masking under the name of gasoline, than can be glossed over by pages of extravagant claims.

For your motor, trust to what the stove shows you. True Gasoline gives you the nearest possible approach to complete combustion—the instant flash into full, smooth, crowding power—power that can never come from reluctant, carbon-bearing kerosenish fuel that is "cracked" from low-grade petroleum dregs.

EIGHT SEEK JOBS ON POLICE FORCE; VETS PRAISE PRIM

Examination To Select Candidates For Force To Be Held Soon

Two more applications for positions as patrolmen on the Appleton police force were received by the fire and police commission which met in the city hall Wednesday evening. The commission now has about eight or more applications on file for both police and firemen's jobs, and will conduct an examination at some future date.

A communication from the Appleton sub-chapter of the Rainbow War veterans addressed to Chief George T. Prim of the police force was submitted. The veterans praise Chief Prim for his efficient work during the visit of Gen. Henri J. E. Gouraud last summer. While the Rainbow men regret the outcome of the trip to the Togo farm when the police force was wrecked and the country motorcycle officer injured, they express the belief that Chief Prim was in no way responsible for the turn of events.

The September police report submitted by Chief Prim showed that the officers made 28 arrests as follows: Speeders 10, disorderly conduct 1, insanity 1, assault 1, drunkenness 5, sodomy 1, driving without license 2, larceny 2, non-support 1, driving while intoxicated 1. Three of the arrested persons were fugitives from justice.

The ambulance answered 19 calls and covered 89.5 miles. The police touring car since Sept. 6 answered 90 calls and covered 887 miles.

Two reports were submitted by Mrs. Mildred Gardner, policeman's wife, for August, and one for September. During August she supervised one dance, returned two books to the library, interviewed three parents, interviewed three girls at the station, procured medical attention for one girl.

During September Mrs. Gardner supervised two dances, attended three band concerts, returned 11 books to the library, interviewed four parents, returned two girls to homes outside the city and took three girls home from dances, besides being engaged in general patrol work.

Mrs. Daniel Hale, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Keelan, at Antigo, for several days, has returned home.

RED CROSS MEETS TO REORGANIZE WORK

County Chapters Send Representatives To Meeting In Y. M. C. A.

Representatives of the Red Cross branches in the county were called to gether at 2:30 Friday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. to determine whether a county chapter of the organization should be established here. When the Appleton branch of the Red Cross closed its business because of lack of funds, all the work of the branches was decentralized and each branch managed its own work. In the service work, the branches worked with the American legion post in its town.

At the instigation of the central division through Mrs. James Wood, who was elected county chairman, the branches have been called into conference. If the county chapter is reorganized plans for the roll call will be made and the relief program for the year planned.

FINISH WORK ON KIMBERLY LOCKS

Government workers are putting the finishing touches on the food, prevention banks which have been constructed at the locks at Kimberly. Dredges have finished scooping clay from Potato point for heightening the canal banks, and the concrete work by which the walls of the locks have been raised 15 inches also is done. The gates have been made higher at so, but are constructed so a spillway remains as a protection against high water.

The improvements were made to avoid possible washing out of the canal banks or locks in case of extremely high water. Walls built of sand bags were necessary during the flood of 1920, but the higher banks will make such steps unnecessary in the future.

NEIGHBORS GRANT RIGHT TO ENLARGE GAS STATION

A permit has been granted to Henry Haskett to build an addition to the oil room of his filling station on Lake and Foster-sts. Permit was at first withheld by the city engineer, on the ground that the city zoning ordinance forbids the building of oil filling stations or alterations thereto in residential districts. The matter was appealed to the board of appeals which decided that Mr. Haskett could proceed with the construction, provided that he secure the signatures of at least ten property owners in the vicinity. Mr. Haskett secured 14 signatures.

FORD MAKING OWN LEATHER FOR CARS

Plant At Highland Park Now Turning Out About 50,000 Yards a Day

From a daily output of 1,500 yards in October, 1922, to the manufacture of 50,000 to 60,000 yards of artificial leather a day at present, after two years effort, is one of the interesting achievements of the Ford Motor Company's plant in Highland Park.

Five grades of leather, each suited to a different purpose, are produced and with these the company is able to supply, wholly or in large part, its own side curtains, seat quarters, back curtains, cushions, cushion facings, tops, sedan roof covering.

The artificial leather manufacture, which was first begun as an experiment in 1915, has reached a high state of perfection and now proceeds on the continuous production system. The principal cloths used are drill, twill, moleskin, sateen and Ford cloth, which is woven at Highland Park. The average length of strip of any of these is 300 to 400 yards, with widths from 36 to 52 inches and weights running between 200 and 300 pounds per roll.

As soon as a roll of cloth enters the manufacturing section of the department it is placed on a re-rolling device and carefully inspected for any possible defect.

Next it is weighed and started through the coating ovens where the coating proceeds on a continuous system. As the cloth passes the first station or section, the coating mixture flows onto one side of it and is evenly distributed by a spreading knife. After the coat is applied the cloth passes into a drying chamber which is heated by steam to 210 degrees Fahrenheit. By the time it emerges from the drying chamber it is ready for the next coat and so the process is repeated until the desired surface covering is secured when the cloth leaves the oven.

Before one roll has been run out, the starting end of another is sewed on, so that the coating operation may continue unimpeded.

When the cloth finally emerges from the oven, with one side hidden beneath a black and glossy, but flexible coat, it is re-wound on a roll and separated from its successor. Then it is weighed to ascertain if sufficient coating mixture has been applied.

Next comes the embossing process by means of which the leather pattern is produced on the coated side of the cloth. This is accomplished through heat and rotary pressure, heated by steam to 230 degrees Fahrenheit and under pressure ranging on some from 400,000 tons to 500,000 tons on others.

After the leather imprint has been made, the cloth goes to the final oven for its finish or lustre coat. After a final inspection it is passed along to go into automobile production.

Approximately 2,100 gallons of coating mixture are required to supply the seven ovens during an eight-hour working shift and with the department now operating on a sixteen-hour day, 4,200 gallons are used daily.

HUPMOBILE HIGH IN MILEAGE CLASS

Washington Man Owns 1914 Model That Has Traveled 320,000 Miles

Officials of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation believe that no car on the market, at any price, provides in all its vital parts for a greater margin of strength in proportion to known strain than the Hupmobile.

"Such provision," declares Charles D. Hastings, president and general manager of the corporation, "is one of the simple secrets of long life, and is why the earliest models we built are still in daily service in all parts of the world."

Among recent letters received at the Hupp office in Detroit from its owners are many that tell of Hupmobiles that have each given in excess of 100,000 miles of service to date. The aggregate mileage of 17 of these cars is 2,603,292.

Al Bloomer, of Pease, Wash., is the owner of a 1914 Hupmobile which, it is believed, has traveled a greater distance than any other automobile ever built, with possibly two or three exceptions. To date it has covered more than 320,000 miles in intervening nine years. During that time, he writes, "replacements have been three springs, spindle and spindle bolts. These latter were replaced when broken in a week. The springs died from age, he says. When the car had traveled 250,000 miles, the motor parts were tightened up and adjusted and have not been inspected since."

A. E. Gulchard, 70 Ninth avenue, Seattle, writes that his 1915 model has covered 250,000 miles. "I never gave anything to it but gas, oil, grease, grind valves and tighten a few bolts and every three years give it a general overhauling," he reports. His replacements have consisted of two drive axles, countershaft gears, valves and connecting rod bearings.

W. S. Hardin, of Owaneco, Ill., who has owned a 1913 Hupp these last six years, says it has gone at least 200,000 miles. His only replacements, he declares, have been piston rings, rear axle, timer and timer chain. The cylinders have never been rebored.

LOOKS AND QUALITY LEAD DODGE LINE

Public Responds Readily To Distinctiveness Of New Models On Market

Marked improvement in appearance and comfort is apparent in the new line of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars in the production of which the factory has been making momentum since July 1. Hundreds of dealers are now supplied with display cars of the new type, and from every source the factory is receiving reports of enthusiastic approval by the public.

While the basic characteristics of the familiar Dodge Brothers cars of recent days are still present, there is an air of distinctiveness that surpasses all previous efforts of this concern to build a moderately priced car of comfortable appearance as well as quality.

The wheelbase is a trifle longer, the body is lower and the rear springs changed to semi-elliptical type are underslung, and increased from 45 to 55 inches in length.

All the features so popular with the public today are embodied in the design of the complete line, which includes a touring car, roadster, coupe, two types of sedan, and sedan side and panel side commercial cars of 1-ton capacity. All steel bodies—as first introduced by Dodge Brothers in their open passenger cars several years ago—are now used for all types.

The effect of the longer and lower body and longer wheelbase, combined with the new lines and lower seats, is very fine. According to dealers and others who have driven the new cars, the improvement in riding qualities is no less pronounced than the improvement in general appearance. The reduction in body height lowers the center of gravity and thereby reduces sideway, while rebound shocks are effectively dispensed by the improved front and rear springs. The car holds the road easily and gracefully and affords real riding comfort.

Another distinct new feature is the louvers or ventilator slits in the sides of the hood panels. This change increases the flow of air through the radiator and reduces the flow of hot air to the floor boards, making summer driving most comfortable.

The rear seat and all upholstery of the touring car are removable, affording a large space for loading luggage or other articles. Seats in all types are deeper and lower, adding to comfort and leg room.

The instrument board is greatly improved in appearance with instruments grouped on a raised panel and with longer lighting switch lever, facilitating control of the lights while driving.

Head lamps are specially designed to harmonize with the new body lines. A combination caution signal and tail lamp is mounted rigidly on the license plate bracket and conforms with the requirements of all states having lighting regulations.

Brake pedal pads are larger and of a design which makes for greater ease and safety. The hand brake lever, like the shifting lever, is moved forward, giving more leg room and making it easier to get in and out.

A tale told is built into the transmission, making it possible to double-lock the car when idling.

The steering wheel is materially improved in appearance and all electrical connections are inside the steering column.

The front springs are increased in length and from 1 1/2 to 2 inches in width and built of more leaves of a thinner stock. The rear springs, in addition to being longer, are now semi-elliptic and flat.

The front axle is of a design unusually strong. The camber, or tilt of the front wheels, is increased, making steering easier. A new gear ratio of the rear axle gives increased flexibility and adds to the ability of Dodge Brothers cars as hill climbers.

In the "Top" a sedan, the upholstery is the finer grade of mohair velvet, and all interior hardware is of distinctive Dodge Brothers design. The business coupe and business sedan are finished in attractive Spanish blue leather.

The fiscal year ending July 1 was the most successful in the history of Dodge Brothers, their dealers having marketed approximately 200,000 cars. With the improvements now put into effect, obviously making the car better and more attractive in every way, though still retaining the essential attributes to which the car owes its great popularity, it seems quite evident that this company has not yet reached the maximum of its potentialities, despite the tremendous record of the year just closed.

He re-assembles it every two years. A. P. Allen, 1848 Broadway, Oakland, Calif., owns a venerable model that has been driven 175,000 miles at a total cost for repair parts not due to accident of $55.32. W. A. Bond, of Bonham, Texas, has driven a 1915 model 143,822 miles. He reports at $10 cost per year for replacement parts.

M. A. Graham, of Riverton, Minn., bought a used 1913 Hupp nine years ago for $225. It has now been driven 123,646 miles. He declares he has never had occasion to meet the Hupmobile dealer nearer him for service.

James E. McMann, of Auberry, Calif., now that his 1915 model has gone 110,483 miles, is "grinding the valves and putting in new piston rings for the first time." His adjustments have been only to the carburetor, he writes, and his replacement expense has been confined entirely to buying one new set of spark plugs.

4-WHEEL BRAKES PLEASE OWNERS

New Contribution Of Buick Now As Popular As Starter And Other Devices

BY E. T. STHONG, General Salesmanager Buick Motor Company

We have not yet heard of a motorist who, after having driven an automobile that is properly equipped with four-wheel brakes, would any more think of going back to two-wheel brakes than he would think of dispensing with his electric starter and electric lights and returning to winding a crank and adjusting carbide or oil for driving at night.

Buick four-wheel brakes were not adopted for stunt purposes. They are standard Buick equipment because of their contribution to advanced design. They increase decidedly the factor of safety in operating a motor car.

BREAKING MOST ESSENTIAL
That braking efficiency has been an essential quality in a motor car, every motorist will admit.

Simply because certain engineers have experimented unsuccessfully with four-wheel brakes is no reason why another group of engineers are not qualified to solve satisfactorily what engineering problems might be involved and to bring out a product that met the severest sort of tests, that proved a tremendous asset to every owner, and an added factor of safety to every pedestrian.

LITTLE ADJUSTMENT NEEDED
Brakes on Buick cars have been developed to the point where very little adjustment is required. When adjustment is necessary as the result of wear on the brake bands, it is simply made by turning a wing nut that is very accessible.

One of the problems in developing four-wheel brakes was the necessity of making provision for the outside front wheel to run free when the car was turning a corner.

The differential in the rear axle is an arrangement of gears whereby power is transmitted to the wheel offering the least resistance, permitting the outside wheel to run faster than the inside, when making turns. The simplicity and practicability of the differential is clearly demonstrated by the fact that many motorists do not know of its existence.

Just as simple an arrangement, which is as automatic as the differential in the rear axle, has been designed in connection with the brakes on the front wheels. The result is that in turning a corner with the brakes applied, the inside front wheel is held firmly while the outside front wheel runs freely.

It is not surprising that American engineers have succeeded in solving problems in connection with four-wheel brakes because it is a well-known fact that American engineers have succeeded in solving engineering problems along many lines when foreign engineers have failed. This has been due to the ingenuity and capability of American minds. Four-wheel brakes are an instance of this.

Since the announcement of the new V-8, the feature which has made the most outstanding impression upon Cadillac owners and the general public has been the performance of the new, inherently balanced and harmonized engine according to Jay W. Duntan, Cadillac manager of distribution.

"Because of exhaustive tests made before the new car was placed in production, the company offered the new type with absolute assurance; but we were scarcely prepared for the general quick grasp of the engineering principle by those who consider themselves motor wise only in the most practical sense," states Mr. Duntan.

"We have also had many statements from automotive engineers that the persistence with which the Cadillac company has adhered to the one principle of engine design has been one of the outstanding phases of recent motor car history. Cadillac engineers have consistently held that the motor car is primarily a passenger-carrying vehicle and that the engine should be of a type which would leave the greatest per centage of chassis space for body purposes. The rigidity of the short crankshaft and crankcase, and the smooth flow of power in the 84-degree V-eight design, have been added factors which have determined them in continuing with the V-type, 80-degree, eight cylinder design."

CADILLAC ENGINE AMAZES AUTOISTS

Since the announcement of the new V-8, the feature which has made the most outstanding impression upon Cadillac owners and the general public has been the performance of the new, inherently balanced and harmonized engine according to Jay W. Duntan, Cadillac manager of distribution.

"Because of exhaustive tests made before the new car was placed in production, the company offered the new type with absolute assurance; but we were scarcely prepared for the general quick grasp of the engineering principle by those who consider themselves motor wise only in the most practical sense," states Mr. Duntan.

The new record for the hill set by Baehle in the Jewett Six was 27 and 2-5 seconds. The hill is approximately one-half mile long and has a gradient for about 200 feet of 25 to 1. It was extremely rough due to the gravel surface being constantly washed away by rains. Baehle explained on his return to the factory this week.

In the owner's event a Jewett Six climbed the hill in 29.4-5 seconds and another Jewett was third, climbing the hill in 31.2-5 seconds. The Jewett which won this event was second in the free-for-all which was won by Baehle when he set the new record.

The owner's Jewett climbed the hill in this event in 22.1-5 seconds. The other competitors were all special built cars, one being a former winner of a Pike's Peak Climb.

DRIVES MAXWELL TO NON-STOP RECORD

Daredevil Driver Keeps Car Going For 116 Consecutive Hours

Detroit—A new record for non-stop driving was established here recently when H. L. (Daredevil) Lockwood piloted a Maxwell touring car for 116 consecutive hours without stopping at any time.

Lockwood, the self same Lockwood who gained fame by his drops from one moving aeroplane to another while in mid-air, by his human fly stunts performed on various of the country's most famous skyscrapers, and by his many brilliant feats as a race driver, broke his own record for continuous driving by four hours. He had previously driven for 112 consecutive hours to a record in Indianapolis.

At the conclusion of his Detroit run it was plainly evident that his physical endurance had been taxed to the utmost and he collapsed as the motor was stopped. His left arm which had been handcuffed to the steering wheel was semi-paralyzed and he was unable to lift himself from the driver's position without aid. His eyes were puffed and swollen and his nose was bleeding as the attending physician administered to him. Through the last twenty-five hours of the run it was necessary to keep a physician in constant attendance and Lockwood was forced to undergo severe pain when two bolts which had developed were changed while the car was in motion and under Lockwood's control.

Could the most non-stop run which ever staged on a track or without interference from traffic, Lockwood faced a big problem in negotiating traffic in and about Detroit for five nights and six days. Traffic officers, however, were all pulling for the daredevil driver to complete his run and aided him wherever possible by turning traffic signals for him. Once in a while, though, Lockwood did "cross traffic" against the signal. And in one case in Sunday traffic on a much used road leading out of Detroit, he had to drive in the ditch to keep from stopping his motor.

After the run Lockwood stated that he gave much credit to the good Maxwell for the manner in which it performed during the long grind, and said that he could never have set a new record were it not for the steady performance which the Maxwell displayed in the test.

The marathon drive made the successful pilot 32 years richer, as he had a wager of that amount that he could drive for 115 hours without a stop.

NASH PLANTS COVER 156 ACRES OF LAND

Approximately 175,000 Cars Built By Company In Last Seven Years

Save by a visit to the home of the Nash car it is difficult indeed to grasp the magnitude of these far flung factories from whose doors approximately 175,000 motor cars have issued since the formation of the company less than 7 years ago. Including the Nash plant at Kenosha, the Nash plant at Milwaukee and the Seaman body plants also at Milwaukee (one-half ownership of which is vested in The Nash Motors Company), there are one hundred and fifty-six acres of ground devoted to the processes of production.

Over 2,500,000 square feet of floor space are occupied by the various departments and more than seven thousand highly trained workmen are carried on the payroll. This inspiring picture of industrial enterprise is still further emphasized by the detailed extent to which Nash cars are fashioned within the walls of Nash plants. To the best of our knowledge there is no other manufacturer of motor cars who builds so large a proportion of his product.

This in union with the remarkable financial resources of The Nash Motors Company, which enable it to purchase materials at the most favorable prices, discloses the reason for the exceptional motor car values with which the name of Nash is synonymous.

The cost of the raw materials is increased only by the cost of converting them into the finished car and not by the profit that goes to a number of different parts manufacturers as in the cases of cars wholly or partly assembled.

Functioning at the head of these great plants and directing their activities is C. W. Nash whose ripe experience and matured ability date back to the days when the carriage business was just beginning to see its place in the sun becoming obscured. That restless initiative which urged him to larger and larger fields of endeavor, that ability for applying the finest manufacturing principles to large production, has carried C. W. Nash to a place of highest honor in the automotive industry.

His devotion to precision, his relentless conscientiousness in every detail, is best revealed by the fact that each Nash car must successfully undergo several thousand separate and distinct inspections and tests before it is deemed worthy of the Nash emblem on the radiator.

The integrity of Nash manufacturing has earned its own reward, for the Nash four has met with such wide spread popularity that the great factories producing it have been over sold almost continuously since the car was first introduced.

Our past fiscal year proved by far the greatest year of our history despite increased production and substantial plant additions we were in an oversold condition most of the time.

Washington — Did you ever wonder how big a hollow is being created inside Old Mother Earth by the millions of barrels of oil and the billions of cubic feet of gas being drained annually from her interior? Did it ever cause you to wonder whether the old shell, drawn empty, might some day cave in, collapse like a blown eggshell, swallowing up the ruthless civilization which had sucked it dry?

If so, cease worrying! The pockets from which gas and oil are drawn are, comparatively, little more than air bubbles under the surface.

All the petroleum pumped to date is less, by comparison, than the letting of a dozen drops of blood from the vein of a normal man.

A statistically inclined scientist, out at the government's Bureau of Standards, figured out the other day just how large a volume all the gasoline that ever had been refined would make. He admitted he was getting a bit worried, himself, over the rapidly increasing drain.

His figures, however, showed him that our entire production of gasoline since gasoline was first refined, totaled less than one-half of one cubic mile.

The total of all petroleum so far produced amounts to only about two cubic miles.

Doesn't sound plausible, does it? Well, figure it out.

A cubic mile contains 147,197,952,000 cubic feet.

BUY NOW, ADVISES CHEVROLET DEALER

Automobile Prices Sure To Be Higher Next Spring, Declares Kloehn

"The wise auto buyer will purchase his car in the fall," says O. R. Kloehn, of Fox River Chevrolet Co., Inc., local distributor for Chevrolet cars. "There is sound reasoning for this."

"Automobile prices, like prices of any other commodity, are governed by supply and demand. Naturally, prices are highest when demand is greatest; namely, in the spring of the year. Chevrolet, as well as many other popular cars, has experienced a demand every spring far in excess of factory capacity for output. The result is delay, and frequently higher prices, necessitated by the increased cost incident to turning out machines in greater numbers than regular facilities will permit."

"A review of the trend of automobile prices for the last few years will show that every cut has taken place in the fall, every increase in the spring. Prices are now at a figure where the purchaser, in addition to having his car available for autumn driving, the prettiest time of the year, may be able to make a substantial saving over spring prices. Even the cost of winter storage is less than would be a very slight increase in the selling price."

"All makers, nearly, are giving warning that prices throughout the automotive industry will increase before next year. The man with an eye to a substantial saving will do well to purchase now."

Bigelow Uses Same Car In Making New Records On Five Routes In Year

California has been talking about record runs for the last three weeks. Not since the days of the old Los Angeles to Phoenix road race—the famous "Desert Classic"—have automobile men had so much to talk about on fast runs and rough going.

Charles H. Bigelow and his double record from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City and on to San Francisco in a stock model Reo Six sport phaeton has provided the "old-timers" with their incentive to talk over the earlier days in the industry and of the records that long since—most of them—have gone by the board.

Bigelow has been making road records with his Reo for more than a year and each time he has put over a record it has been through territory more difficult than its predecessor. The roundtrip, Los Angeles to Phoenix record of last year was accounted a real performance. Then came Bigelow's run from Salt Lake to Los Angeles—a heart breaking trip across mountain and desert which broke the previous mark just six minutes elapsed time.

His next achievement was the run from Los Angeles to Phoenix, last March over the Oldfield record route in which the Reo took touring car clipped many minutes off the time made years before by the "Master Driver."

The run from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City in June, in which Bigelow and Dave Fassett beat the best time of the Limited to Salt Lake by several minutes and the automobile mark by 34 minutes, was the most strenuous of Bigelow's recent record runs. His elapsed time of 25 hours 41 minutes is considered phenomenal by those familiar with conditions along the 833 miles of the route. A few days later Bigelow and Fassett "hopped off" from the Utah capital for San Francisco, and just 25 hours and 36 minutes later arrived in the Bay City. This distance of 863 miles is considered a most severe test for a motor car even at slow touring speeds. They had intended starting within twenty-four hours after their arrival in Salt Lake from Los Angeles but severe rains necessitated a postponement for several days as much of the route was flooded too deep for travel by anything but a boat.

The stock model Reo phaeton which Bigelow used on the trip has been on exhibition at the salesrooms of the Reo Motor Car Company branch in San Francisco for the past ten days and has been examined with great interest by thousands of motorists.

WILLARD BATTERIES IN RADIO STATION

No Motor Generator Used For Broadcasting At Cleveland Headquarters

Ample opportunity is being provided for the Willard Storage Battery company of Cleveland to prove the efficiency of its radio batteries as this company has started broadcasting from its powerful new transmitting station.

It so happens that the Willard company has just recently introduced to broadcasting stations a new and specially designed battery for broadcasting purposes. For many months this company carefully studied the transmitting problems of the largest broadcasting stations in the country, finally evolving the new broadcasting battery which has a number of improved qualities including constant voltage and great capacity.

It is this new type of broadcasting battery with which Willard's new broadcasting station is equipped. And its powerful transmission depends on storage batteries alone, no motor generator being used. Through the use of storage batteries to supply the 2500 volts required by the 1000 watt transmitter, this station bids fair to be the most quiet broadcast station in the country, as every possible precaution has been taken to prevent interference from any source.

NEW LONDON WILL SEND 20 HERE FOR MALLOCH DINNER

Appleton People Are Asked To Register At Once To Hear
Renowned Humorist

Twenty reservations have been made by New London business men for the dinner of the chamber of commerce at Hotel Appleton Oct. 16. When Douglas Malloch is to give an address on "Husbands and Wives." A letter received from E. N. Caley of that city requested that number of plates.

Mr. Caley thanked the chamber for its willingness to accommodate the New London people because they feel it a privilege to hear the renowned poet and humorist, he says.

The Appleton chamber now is preparing its October issue of the monthly publication, Community Betterment, and will issue it about next Tuesday, accompanied by the Malloch dinner announcement. Reservation cards will be provided at that time.

Two hundred persons is the maximum that the hotel dining room will accommodate. Secretary Hugh G. Corbett says, and he therefore urges prompt reservation of places. Requests may be filed any time. There are indications that the Malloch address, with its inspirational message clothed in sparkling wit, will set a record for attendance.

Fire Prevention week precedes the date of the dinner, and a summary of the fire prevention work will be made part of the program at this meeting.

How to tell for sure —what oil your car needs

No. 8 in the series.

Perhaps you own a Dodge

If you don't own a Dodge, cut this out and hand it to a friend who does

Your Dodge engine is of the four-cylinder, vertical, L-head type, bore 3 7/8", stroke 4 3/4". It is equipped with a splash circulating system of lubrication employing a vane pump located above the oil level.

Oil distribution is effected by dippers on the lower ends of the connecting rods. These dip into the oil in the splash troughs and project it to all friction surfaces within the engine. Small holes above the dippers are provided to convey the oil into the crank pin bearings.

On all Dodge engines, prior to 1923, cast iron pistons were used. Because of the present day fuels, comparatively small carbon deposits in these engines quickly result in "pinging" or knocking.

It is of utmost importance, therefore, that a clean burning oil be used in these engines, under all operating conditions in order to eliminate the tendency toward excessive carbon accumulations. Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic meets these requirements as this oil is of sufficient body to assure thorough engine lubrication and is of such character as to burn with a minimum of carbon deposits.

The 1923 Dodge engine uses a special type of constant clearance, aluminum alloy piston. The chief factor for consideration from a lubrication standpoint is, that they result in much lower piston head temperatures, thus minimizing carbon formations and in turn, the knocking or "pinging" tendency of an engine.

For this reason, Gargyle Mobiloil "A" of a richer lubricating character than Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic, can be used in these engines to advantage during summer. This change in piston design counteracts the conditions which in the previous models made the engine sensitive to carbon formation.

During summer Gargyle Mobiloil "A" should be used in the 1923 models; in all earlier models Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic should be used.

During winter, because of the elevated exposed location of the oil pump, it is necessary to use an oil of the proper fluidity, to provide positive pump priming. Gargyle Mobiloil Arctic should be used during winter in all models.

Mind Of Fair Sex Is 'Sloppy'

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
New York.—Every once in a while a man thinks of some new observation to bring upon a woman's mind regarding the shortcomings of women.
"Harry Connolly," the playwright, has decided we are "sloppy-minded." It all started with a discussion of his play, "Dulce." I called the something original, like a dumbbell, or a homebody, because her conversational existence was just one broadside after another.
He chuckled at seeing she was "typical" of women's "sloppy-mindedness."
Lots of women are too lazy to think as men do. Their brains become sponges that absorb the opinions and expressions of others. In conversation these poor creatures automatically pop out and form the trails upon which they drape their thoughts.
"Of course men never utter broadsides," I put in here sarcastically. I suppose their conversation just coincides with common sense.
EXCUSE FOR MEN
"They utter these expressions only during a mental breathing spell," he came back, nodding to his guns and defending his sex. "They do it when the brain is concentrated on a certain question or situation and they are marking time until the exact answer works itself out."
"Women on the other hand are more self-centered. They are not vitally interested in what is being said and they don't take the trouble to think up an original answer. It's so much easier to fill in the gap with 'Well, such is life' or 'Two's company, three's a crowd' or any of the old favorites."
"Is there any help for me?" I asked meekly.
THERE'S HOPE
"When one has become a chronic platitude-monger," he replied, "the first efforts to reform are somewhat painful. One's brain really cracks when he starts to think up original sayings of his own. But it is worth the effort, and it can be done."
"Women have just as good brains as men," he conceded in conclusion "but unless they get about and bustle for a living or get interested in clubs or something like that, their cerebral cylinders get rusty. And they get sloppy-minded. So it's the men who think up the smart sayings, generally, but the women who keep them alive."
This may be so, but I fancy his saying that we are sloppy-minded will never become a platitude if he depends upon us women to keep it going!

Paris Fashion Designers React Against Too Much Simplicity In Gowns

Paris.—This is the season when simplicity must be mingled with sophistication if it is to receive any recognition in fashion circles.
"The epidemic of the perfectly simple crepe frock which held us in sway for so long has given way to a natural reaction in exactly the opposite direction," says Mme. Charlotte Appert, Parisian designer.
Here's her summary of the fashion outlook:
All fabrics and embroideries are taking on a richer hue. The afternoon frock of this season will be quite as gorgeous in its way as the one for evening. The same holds true for coats.
A RELIEF
"Simplicity is important, but the straight line must be qualified by details, drapes, draperies and tiers. Embroidery is not to be confined to silks and wools, but will be carried out in diamonds, pearls, rubies and colored stones. The richest of furs and the most supple of velvets will be seen in abundance."
One of the ways to be sure of a smart frock this season is to watch the hemline.
"Only those on the most severe frocks follow a straight course," Mme. Appert says. "The interesting ones are all scalloped or irregular. The edges are accentuated by brilliant colors or by gold or silver bands that show between the scallops."
EFFECT IS SHORT
"On some of the evening frocks much of the substantial material is cut away to reveal the delicate, lacy fabric beneath and this gives the frock the effect of decided shortness."
"Clothes this season reveal the figure, not suggestively, but very pleasingly. Gowns are rarely cut low in front, though many of them are cut to the waistline in the back. There are long sleeves on many of the evening frocks, and absolutely none on many of the models for afternoon."
"Women have just as good brains as men," he conceded in conclusion "but unless they get about and bustle for a living or get interested in clubs or something like that, their cerebral cylinders get rusty. And they get sloppy-minded. So it's the men who think up the smart sayings, generally, but the women who keep them alive."

First Woman Switch Board Operator Still At It In 45th Year

Convent, N. J.—The original "hello girl" has said good-bye! yet. After 45 years at the switchboard, she's still on the job listening in on the world asking the same old questions, receiving the same old answers, in much the same old way.
But Mary Beatrice Kennedy, the first girl to put the smile in the voice, no longer sits in a bus-like seat at an old-fashioned switchboard in the New "Nassau" exchange. She's now plugged in at a desk in the College of St. Elizabeth where she is telephone operator and chaperone.
"The times have changed," she says, "and the telephone has improved, but not so the people's temper."
"Why, I got my job because the telephone was a threat of firing his boy operators for swearing at the subscribers who grew weary at the poor service."
"If you think you're getting poor service today, you should have tried it in the eighties."
"Near noon were almost daily happenings in the outer office of our exchange. Subscribers came down to fight the operator who had sworn at them and had given directions as to where he wished they would go."
"The boys soon made it impossible for them to hold the jobs as operators, and girls took their places. I was one first to get the job and went to work just 45 years ago this month. The boys were all jealous of me, but I didn't mind. They were soon all fired."
Alexander G. Bell, inventor of the telephone, often came down to the exchange where Miss Kennedy worked. Sometimes he was annoyed, but he was never angry with her.
"But we don't pay much attention to him," she says. "He wasn't a 'famous man'."
The favorite questions of the old days.
"What's the weather prediction?" asks Miss Kennedy. "Used to be most frequently asked. And 'How much are eggs selling?' was another favorite."
"What time is it Central?" and "What's the fire place?" hadn't come into vogue yet.
And nobody asked for the base score or prize results.
"Getting a number was unheard of in the early days. Subscribers simply called for Smith's drug store or Jones' grocery or the other, but being on Broadway at such and such a cross street. When they didn't get their party at once, of course, they blamed poor Central—just as today," Miss Kennedy got 85 a week for her work when she first began.
When I think of the comforts in the offices today," she says, "I realize that the girls in the dark ages had virtually nothing. I went to work at eight in the morning and remained on the job until six at night. To get to work I had to take a horse car from my home in Jersey City, then a ferry across to Manhattan, and then another street car, draw by horses. And when I got to my

Adventures Of The Twins

Twins Get Magic Stick
Nancy and Nick and Mister Sky Bow slipped on a lot of banana skins the bad old wizard threw down and things did look bad for a minute.
The Twins remembered what Sky Bow had told them. That if the wizard (Cross Patch) his name was said them first, he would grab his magic stick and say a charm and turn them all into worms.
"Goodness!" thought Nancy when she felt herself falling. "I'll soon be a worm. I wonder whether I'll be turned into an earth worm or a fuzzy one."
And Nick was thinking the same thing.
But Mister Sky Bow, smart little fellow wasn't thinking of anything so silly. He was thinking, "Just as soon as old Cross Patch reaches for his magic stick there on the table. I'm going to grab him around the sides and do a little magic work myself."
And he watched and watched.
Sure enough! Just as old Cross Patch took a step to get his bad old stick, didn't Sky Bow roll over and grab him?
Down went the wizard like a ripe apple.
Quick as a wink Nick jumped up and grabbed the magic stick.
"Take us all out of here and turn old Cross Patch into a turtle," he cried.
And that's just what happened. And Cross Patch couldn't follow, as worms move so slowly.
Then the Twins and Mister Sky Bow took the magic stick and made everybody happy again.
The Gnomes became Grinders at once and grinned happily.
But the best part was when they went back to Rainbow Land. By one wave of the wand they made the Noses and Ears and Dummies and Whiskers and everybody happy again.
And Cross Patch stared a little for two weeks, when the Fairy Queen turned him into a good fairy instead of a bad one.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHON TO MR. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON
MY DEAR MR. HAMILTON:
After your generosity and that of my other friends to me, no one need ever tell me that this world is not full of kind-hearted and sympathetic people.
I cannot write you all that is within my heart, but I will accept the check which Leslie sent me from you and you will be glad to know that there is great hope of Sam getting back his sight.
One of the greatest eye specialists in the country is coming to see him tomorrow, but I think that whatever he may say to him, it will not do him any more good than the words you said to him through Leslie—that if he recovered his sight, you would find a place for him in your business. It has given him an incentive to live.
Dear Mr. Hamilton, all I can say is that both Sam and I hope you will get what you deserve while you live and can enjoy it.
Sincerely and gratefully yours, SALLY.
Letter From Mrs. Joseph Graves Hamilton to Her Daughter, Mrs. Leslie Prescott.
I am enclosing a letter from Sally Athon written to your father. I've rarely seen your father so touched as he was by it.
I am glad, my dear child, that you are coming home before we have to leave, and from what you have written me, I think that John's mother must be rather a selfish woman.
You know, my dear child, that there are mothers and mothers. Some mothers give all and some mothers ask all. I have always tried to steer toward a middle course.
I have tried to give my children everything that would make them happy, but I have also tried not to be so indulgent that I would hurt the strength and stamina of their character.
It is said that a selfish mother makes an unselfish daughter, and vice versa.
I am going to tell you a secret, my dear Leslie. I think there are some cases where unselfishness ceases to be a virtue.
Kindness of heart and a sympathetic mind is much to be desired, but I have sometimes thought that those people who are particularly unselfish and who give in to the wants and desires and prejudices of some one who is narrow minded, selfish and prejudiced, are too lazy to stand up for their own two inches and starts the liver and bowels with a bad cold which would be better not only for themselves but for the person who asks so much.
Your little apartment is perfectly lovely. You have shown a discriminating taste that makes me very proud of you and I am quite sure that John loves it as much as you do.
He told me with great pride that he had just seen the place until it was all over. I expect you did not tell him how much it cost as men never have any idea of the amount of money such things cost, unless they are in the business of selling them.

LEFT-OVERS
Left-over bits of meat have a way of accumulating in a truly maddening fashion sometimes. The "tail" of a porkhouse steak, scrag ends of the Sunday roast, an old chop and a scrap of ham are too "good to throw away" and yet seem hopeless to the inexperienced housewife.
Beef can be used in hash, lamb or mutton combined with rice, veal or pork worked up in croquettes, a meat pie or a cream sauce on toast. A combination of meats can be made into any of these dishes with very satisfactory results.
The secret of successful left-over dishes lies in the care with which they are prepared and served. Every particle of gristle or skin should be removed from the meat, the bones cut away and if the fatty objects to fat, this should be trimmed off. Serve hash or croquettes garnished with parsley on the best platter. This has a psychological effect on the family which is worth dollars and cents to the cook.
HASH
One and one-half cups chopped left-over roast beef, 2 cups chopped potatoes, 1 onion (finely cut), 2 tablespoons bacon fat or drippings, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, salt and pepper.
Cooked or raw potatoes may be used. Pare potatoes and put through coarse half of food chopper. Mix chopped meat, potatoes, onion, salt and pepper. Melt bacon fat in frying pan and when very hot add meat mixture. Pour the water in at one side of the pan, cover closely and cook over slow fire for 20 minutes. Remove cover and cook until hash is dry. Add butter and turn frequently with a spatula to prevent burning. The hash will become brown and crisp and quite light and fluffy made this way. If wanted folded, do not stir, but let brown on the bottom. Then fold like an omelet. Cooked potatoes should be used.
MEAT CROQUETTES
Two cups chopped meat, 1/2 cup dried bread crumbs, 1 egg, salt and pepper, milk.
Put meat through fine knife of food chopper. Mix meat, salt and pepper and bread crumbs thoroughly in a deep mixing bowl. Add eggs, unbeaten and mix well with a fork. Add milk slowly, beating constantly. The mixture should be quite moist. The bread crumbs will absorb quite a lot of milk. Pack mixture in a big iron spoon and push into a frying pan containing about one-fourth inch deep of hot fat. The mixture should be too moist to form into balls with the hands. Cook until brown on one side, turn and brown on the other side. Serve with tomato sauce.
This is an excellent way to use up several kinds of meat.

Husbands will probably weep when they see this picture showing Virginia Browne Faire, movie star, wrapped in her new style dyed caracul wrap. The collar and trimmings are of badger with combination side panels and sleeves. Near but not gaudy say we. But it could put a dent in the old check book. What say?

NOVELTY IN LINGERIE
The sleeveless pajama is a novelty in lingerie, and a very close-around neckline is favored.
OPOSSUM COLLARS
Between season coats of soft wool and unobtrusive checks or plaids have wide collars of opossum.
APRON FRONT
The fashionable apron front is featured on three-piece suits, and the apron goes with the coat instead of the frock.
DISTINGUISHING
Irregular flouncings add distinction to afternoon gowns of satin or serge and are a relief from the straight line.

How To Preserve Hot Water Bag

Never put boiling water into a hot water bag, as it very quickly rots the rubber and makes it unsafe for use. Test the temperature of the bag against the cheek or forearm. Special care should be taken with children, old people and invalids, lest it be too hot. Be very careful with a sleeping or unconscious person also, as they can not move it, and so are easily burned.
The rubber bag should always be well covered with a cotton slip or towel. Never completely fill a bag, because it will not be comfortably and easily along the body and will burst if any weight is put on it.
Full the bag two-thirds full—then squeeze it at the top to force out the air, and screw in the top. If air is left in the bag, it makes it too bulky and it cools more quickly. Always make sure the rubber washer is in place and, when it is screwed in, hold the bag upside down and force the water into that side to make sure there is no leak.
Before putting away the bag, hang it up, nozzle down, for a few hours. Then fill with air by pulling out the sides, and screw in the top. This will keep the sides from sticking together and rotting as they will do if left damp.—From The Designer Magazine.

HUSBAND MISSING 7 YEARS. WIFE SUES FOR HIS INSURANCE

Aid Association For Lutherans Defendant In Novel Court Action

Action has been begun by Mrs. Martha Gugler of Milwaukee against the Aid Association for Lutherans of Appleton to recover $1,000 as insurance benefit which she says is due on her husband's certificate of membership, or insurance policy.

The case will be heard in circuit court Monday morning by Judge Edgar V. Werner, with Attorney C. E. Behnke of Appleton representing the defendant and Oswald and Brady of Milwaukee as counsel for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Gugler says in her complaint that she filed a statement with the association declaring that her husband had been dead since Nov. 1, 1911, or before that date, as she cannot in any other way account for his strange disappearance. He left his home in West Allis in July of that year to secure employment in Avery, Idaho. On July 30 he wrote asking for some clothes and saying he had a job. Mrs. Gugler has never heard from him since in spite of her diligent efforts to locate him. Husband and wife were in the most friendly and affectionate terms, she says.

ALWAYS PAID DUES

Mrs. Gugler was among the first members of the association and held certificate No. 492, dated Aug. 15, 1902. The certificate of $1,000 was on Feb. 2, 1920, exchanged for certificate No. 24,365. Although Mrs. Gugler believes her husband has been dead since Nov. 1, 1911, she continued to pay the dues and assessments demanded by the association. These dues from Oct. 27, 1911 to April 30, 1922, amount to $173.95, according to Mrs. Gugler. The plaintiff asks judgment of $1,000 as insurance benefit, together with interest from Nov. 1, 1911, and fees of $173.95, as well as the costs of the action.

In reply to the plaintiff's complaint, the aid association alleges that the by-laws of 1911 provide that the defendant "on payment of death loss where proof of death consists of presumption rising from disappearance without findings. The notice of death and the claim for death benefit must be given in writing by the beneficiary to the secretary of the association within 30 days after the death of the member. It is asserted. Failure to comply with the by-laws means waiver of benefit," it said. The plaintiff, it is alleged, as not complied with the provisions. The defendant asks that if a judgment is rendered authorizing the plaintiff to recover the sum from the aid certificate No. 24,365 and not certificate No. 492. It is also asked that the plaintiff be adjudged to recover the recovery be allowed to the sum paid by the plaintiff.

Leeman Tragedy Fails To Estrange Bedor And Dietzler Families

Victims Of Tragedy

The tragedy of the murder of Edwin R. Bedor, town of Maine man, and the arrest of his neighbor, Henry Dietzler, on a charge of committing the crime, has not estranged the children of the two families. Best of friends before the shooting, they remained staunch friends afterward.

This friendship, which even a tragedy of this kind could not shatter was evidenced when a Post-Crescent reporter visited the scene of the shooting recently to obtain some pictures. The country thereabouts is wild and a stranger would soon lose his way in the swamps and cut over land.

The reporter secured Doris Bedor, daughter of the slain man, to guide him to the sugar shanty near where the shooting occurred. The young woman, acquainted as she was with the country, could not find the shanty after a long hunt but she didn't want to disappoint the reporter and she sought help. Her first thought was of the Dietzlers and she led the reporter back to the road and then to the Dietzler home. The reporter and his guide found a family at dinner and they were welcomed most cordially. Mrs. Dietzler was too busy to act as guide but she promptly delegated the task to her son Marion and in a few minutes the daughter of the slain man, the son of the man accused of slaying him and the reporter were picking their way through the fields to the shanty.

On the way they passed a little hut of sand where the water had washed on the land and Doris stopped to look for tracks made by Marion's father on the day of the shooting but the youngster objected, declaring his father had not been in the vicinity for several days.

The youngsters and the reporter went on to the shanty where Doris was shown where her father was dipping water out of the Wolf river when he was shot. The two youngsters went over the entire place to look for tracks. They talked about the shooting but there wasn't a word to indicate that the tragedy might break up their friendship.

THESE YOUNG PEOPLE, DORIS BEDOR, DAUGHTER OF EDWIN R. BEDOR, AND MARION DIETZLER, SON OF HENRY DIETZLER, ACCUSED OF SLAYING BEDOR, ARE STILL THE BEST OF FRIENDS. THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN WHILE THEY WERE GUIDING A POST-CRESCENT REPORTER TO THE SCENE OF THE SHOOTING A FEW DAYS AFTER THE MURDER.

CARRY PETITION FOR WATERMAIN TO STATE BOARD

Oklahoma-ave Residents Ask Railroad Commission To Help Them

Seven residents in the vicinity of Oklahoma-ave near Story and Bennett sts in the Fifth ward have complained to the state railroad commission because of their failure to receive water main extensions in spite of the fact that the city council authorized the extensions.

A copy of the letter was sent to Theodore Berg, city attorney, with a communication of the railroad commission asking that he "advise very promptly as to the situation and as to what reasons, if any, which prevent the city from taking care of the extensions during the present season."

A copy of both letters was also sent to the Appleton water commission.

The communication of the seven residents was as follows:

"A partition for water was secured and submitted to the city council. The resolution of our street and bridge committee was voted on and passed by the city council and bids were advertised for."

BUILT ON PROMISES

"For some reason or other, all bids were rejected, and we are now advised that the work of laying the water mains will not be started until next year. Existing water conditions are very deplorable and it is due to the fact that water was promised to us that definitely decided the new home builders to build there."

"We are less than 60 feet from a present water main and we would like to know, considering our urgent need of water, if we can in any way demand the city to complete this work before winter."

The letter was signed by George P. Miller, Gilbert W. Bohnsack, George G. Forster, Tony Huebel, L. E. Luebke, H. Fulcher and Earl Bellins.

The reply to the railroad commission, sent by Fred R. Morris, assistant secretary of the water commission, explained the situation which induced the council to postpone its water main program until next year. He said that the extensions on the street referred to, together with 2,300 feet elsewhere were authorized for installation by the council. The commission advertised for bids for pipe and fittings but to give prompt delivery the bidders demanded a premium of about $1,700 over normal prices. As an economy measure, the council then asked the water commission to defer construction until next year. Mr. Morris wrote:

are very deplorable and it is due to the fact that water was promised to us that definitely decided the new home builders to build there.

C. OF C. HOPING TO FILL CHAPEL FOR STEFANSSON TALK

Foremost Explorer Of World Will Pay Appleton a Visit Nov. 8

Hopes of filling Lawrence Memorial chapel for the lecture by Vilhjalmur Stefansson Nov. 8 are entertained by the chamber of commerce, which is making preparations for entertaining this foremost Arctic explorer and scientist.

Arrangements will be made soon for the sale of tickets and reservation of seats. An effort will be made to obtain attendance of a large body of students, because his talk, while full of facts and an occasional sprinkling of humor, holds a high educational value.

Stefansson has had experiences that have come to no other explorer and he is expected to relate some of them here. He ventured into the frozen north without the usual supplies of food taken by adventurers seeking the north pole, determined that if the Eskimo could thrive there he could too. His crew was mutinous at the idea but he bravely stuck and won out, discovering that one could live in off the country if he were willing to eat the same food as the Eskimos.

Men who take their life in their hands in their adventures always have a gripping tale to tell. Stefansson is one of these and is in demand all over the country as a speaker. The chamber of commerce is bringing him to Appleton at a heavy expense, believing that this city should occasionally entertain visitors of note.

DRIVER KNOCKS DOWN POLE AND RUNS OVER DOG

While passing Henry Schabo and Son's delivery wagon at the corner of Oneida and Hancock sts at 7 o'clock Thursday morning, an unidentified driver of an automobile collided with an electric light pole, causing the lamp to fall to the ground and damaging the steering gear and radiator of his machine. He also ran over a shepherd dog belonging to George L. Loos, fracturing one of its legs and injuring it internally.

WHY are certain women admired wherever they go? Why do men like to be seen with them. Because they literally radiate health, beauty and energy. They jealously guard their health, and nature has rewarded them with the beauty, attractiveness and virile womanhood that makes life a constant delight.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE PRETTIER: Dr. H. S. Thacher, the noted specialist, perfected a delicious, nourishing vegetable tonic that is now being used by countless numbers of women, because it quickly helps remove the saltness that comes from a torpid liver and impurities from the system that cause pimples and other skin disfigurements. Dr. Thacher's improves the digestion, nourishes and strengthens the body, round out the girlish lines of your figure with firm, solid flesh, brings back the sparkle of vitality to your eyes and sends over healthier blood coursing through your cheeks.

TRY THIS TONIC: Take a delicious tablespoon of Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you look and feel. If you are not completely satisfied the small cost will be returned without any inconvenience whatsoever to you. Get it in Appleton at The Union Pharmacy, Bellings' Drug Store and Folger's Drug Store in Kaukauna at Kaukauna Drug Co. and at the leading druggists in every town. adv.

Announcement

A beautiful oil painting of Gordon Coats by Thomas Webb, famous New York fashion artist is exhibited in our display windows this week.

We arranged with the owners, Gordon & Ferguson of Saint Paul, to show this picture as we believed people of this community would appreciate seeing such a splendid piece of modern art, in the original, by so noted an artist.

Mr. Webb is a master of the modern school of art and his work receives the highest remuneration. The painting now shown in our display window represents a value of $1000.00.

We feel fortunate in having this painting in our possession even for so short a time. You'll enjoy seeing it—come this week.

GUNMEN CHANGE SHOOTING STORIES

Wounded Bandit Declares He Was Shot By Detective Who Was Killed

Fond du Lac—That Detective Jacobs and not Patrolman John Cotten shot him in the jaw is the contention of Oliver Jones, one of the alleged Missouri gunmen held at the county jail on a first degree murder charge.

Refuting the statement of Arvil Jones, made on Tuesday in the presence of several witnesses, Oliver Jones said on Wednesday that when Jacobs came over the side of the steel gondola car, Jacobs' automatic pistol was out and that he opened fire on them after he had commanded them to "put 'em up, boys."

"Jacobs is dead and can't talk," said Chief of Police Sigen when he was told of the statement of Oliver Jones that Jacobs and not the police officer had shot him. "It is just a bluff."

Oliver's story doesn't hold water for the reason that the shot that struck him went into his neck beneath his jaw and came out several inches along the side of his head and at a higher angle. This shows that the shot came from a point below where he was standing and at an angle that would prove it was fired from the gun of one of the officers on the ground. Jacobs was on a level with the two gunmen and any bullet he fired could not have taken the course it did in Jones' neck.

Food and the Teeth

Probably no other one part of the body produces so much trouble as bad teeth do. Yet bad teeth are found in two-thirds of all school children.

The prevention of decay in the teeth is easier than the prevention of almost any other disease of the body, yet the teeth receive perhaps the least attention. Children must begin at birth—and at their mothers' breast—to receive pure lime-giving milk to build up and supply the "chewing bones" with the food they are in constant need of. Milk is rich in bone-making material, hence its liberal use in infancy and childhood goes a long way to insure firm, lasting teeth. A semi-annual trip to the dentist is of the utmost importance. Your dentist will tell you that milk-drinkers invariably have good teeth, especially if sweets are not too frequently indulged in. Wrong eating more than any other evil is responsible for the shocking condition of the composite average tooth.

Lunches Between Meals

Many mothers seem to consider eating between meals a crime. On the contrary it meets the necessity of many children who cannot, without causing indigestion, eat enough at one meal to sustain them until the next. Constant nibbling should not be allowed. If the interval between meals is long, a child should have a glass of milk and a wafer, a slice of bread and butter or fruit of some kind. The digestion suffers if the child is allowed to become so hungry that he over-eats in an effort to satisfy himself. Wakefulness is often cured by a glass of hot milk before going to bed.

ABUNDANT WHEAT SUPPLY MAKES BREAD ECONOMICAL FOOD

Margarine an Excellent Spread for Bread

The housewife who is a wise provider will see to it that her family has plenty of bread. Nutrition experts tell us that from one-fifth to one-third of the calories should be supplied by cereal foods. Three-quarters of the cereal consumption of this country is in the form of wheat bread.

Just at present there is an abundant supply of wheat, and bread is cheap. An increase in its use would result in a large saving to the American family and at the same time provide a simple but excellent diet.

The selection of a suitable spread for bread needs consideration. For to the American taste something is needed with which to spread the bread and make it more palatable. From a dietetic standpoint, also, bread is not in itself a balanced ration but needs a complement in the form of a nutritious spread composed of an edible fat.

For this purpose margarine is being called to the attention of and used by the American housewife. She wants wheat flour to be white, palatable and nutritious; and she wants the spread to be pure, wholesome and delicious. Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine answers this requirement perfectly.

Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is prepared from pure ingredients. Wholesome food oils rendered from meat fats are blended into a perfect emulsion with milk that is received fresh and sweet each morning from our farms. Both the ingredients and the method of preparation are delightfully pure and sanitary. During the entire process of production Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine never comes in contact with human hands. It is spread with Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine forms a combination that is delicious and nourishing. Whenever the one is used the other should also be in evidence. —Advertisement—in Thomas J. Webb Coffee the following extraordinary precautions have been taken to provide and preserve full coffee flavor and richness:

Costs less per cup because—

—it is a Superior Blend—

It is roasted in the "live flame"—an original roasting process that seals all the flavor-giving oils into each tiny cell of the coffee cherry. As a result, all the natural richness of Thomas J. Webb Coffee goes into your coffee cup.

—Sealed in the Roasting

Furthermore, the freshly roasted coffee itself is in turn packed and sealed in air tight, moistureproof tins. This insures freshness of every precious particle all the way down to the last coffee bean in the tin. These are the reasons why Thomas J. Webb Coffee—

yields more cups to the pound

Buy-Selecting the Price Angle

Of course price counts. Cost is an item to everybody. Sensible people avoid stores that seek to avoid the price angle. At this store we want you to look to the price as WELL as to the quality—for both will withstand keenest inspection.

BUT—whether you consider price first or consider it last, and whether you buy here or elsewhere, consider it side by side with the thing it buys.

Insist on reasonable prices—but insist that they buy something worth buying.

Fourth Ward Is Grateful For New Park

No action which the city has taken for some time in behalf of the residents of the Fourth ward drew such unanimous appreciation as the vote of the common council Wednesday evening to purchase a 50-acre tract of land for a municipal park. This feeling of gratitude was voiced at a meeting of taxpayers of the ward at Joseph Beeber's place of business, 575 Lake st., Thursday evening. Mr. Beeber acted as chairman.

The vote of thanks which followed unanimous passage was as follows:

"We wish to thank his honor, the mayor, and the common council of the city of Appleton for their action in purchasing from Fred F. Watterberg at the meeting last Wednesday evening, the 50-acre tract of land between South Division and Kewanee on Fremont for park purposes for the Fourth ward.

"We wish to commend the city council for its good business sense, and in the purchase of same. We feel that with a little improvement on this tract of land from year to year it will be long before the Fourth ward will have as nice a park as can be found anywhere in the city of Appleton."
